Using technology to enrich basic skills teaching and learning

This workshop will present our experience of using a range of technology in literacy, language and basic skills teaching and learning. In particular we will show the potential of (i) screen recording apps such as Ezvid and Reflector for teaching, feedback, review and assessment; (ii) Scratch and EDpuzzle to create activities which simulate touch screen and automated telephone services to enable learners to build confidence to use these outside the classroom. e.g. automatic touchscreen ticket machines, automated checkouts in supermarkets, ATM cash withdrawal machines, telephone services to top up phone credit or leave an electricity or gas meter reading.

There will also be an opportunity to try some of the other technology we are using such as SMART notebook, Quizlet etc.

Participants should bring a lesson plan or an idea for a student learning goal. We will facilitate them to use technology to create an activity to support their lesson/learning goal.

Country Presentation 4: The Netherlands

IDEAL: The Final Countdown

In this workshop the Dutch participant in the IDEAL project, ROC West-Brabant, takes a closer look at what we have achieved in the past two years. Starting from the needs analysis in the first phase of the project, a shortlist was made of the main learning objectives of the students (as mentioned by themselves and by their teachers) and of the teachers/tutors/trainers themselves. The big question is then to what extent these learning objectives have been reached in the course of the IDEAL-project. In a playful and interactive way the Dutch delegation wants to show all participants if and how the IDEAL goals have been met, using various digital tools and skills acquired within and outside the scope of this project.

By changing the demand and job supply systems, the web, social networks and social media have become key tools for job searching.

Adult education can be an interesting investment only when is connected to a personal and professional development project.

The student blog with Word Press can work as a portfolio and along with social profiles, Linkedin, Facebook, Twitter supports adult education, gives direction and motivates learning.
